S. B. No. 28. An act to furnish the office of the Senate of the Senate on Humans end Benevolent Institutions to the Chancery Clerk of Wilkinson county, in the State, and the Sale of this State, and to turnish the office to minors, be sees, as we do, no reason why this prohibitory law should not be further extended, so as to shield and protect the youth of the country from the immoral and burtful practice of the use of the poisonous narcotic named in the bill, which, according to scientists of the medical profession, and the experience and observation of mankind generative and observation perience and observation of mankind generally, entails upon the human race the most baneful and abhorent "ills that flesh is heir to."

The enactment of such a law, in the opinion of your Committee, would be the establishment of another "Humane and Benevolent Institution," and now holding, as it were, "this mirror up to nature," and commending the moral that this bill should teach, to those of riper years, your Committee respectfully recommend its passage.
